

C'est la paix! [sɛ la pɛ] (There is peace!)

Text by Georgette Debladis

Set by Gabriel Fauré (1845-1924), op. 114

|                                           |               |                |               |             |           |                |
|-------------------------------------------|---------------|----------------|---------------|-------------|-----------|----------------|
| Pendant                            | qu'ils | étaient | partis | pour | la | guerre, |
| [pɑ̃.dɑ̃                                  | kil.          | zɛ.tɛ          | par.ti        | pur         | la        | gɛ.rə]         |
| While                                     | that-they     | had            | left          | for         | the       | war,           |
| (While they were away at the war,) |               |                |               |             |           |                |

|                                                |           |                |              |           |           |                |               |
|------------------------------------------------|-----------|----------------|--------------|-----------|-----------|----------------|---------------|
| on                                      | ne | dansait | plus, | on | ne | parlait | guère, |
| [õ                                             | nə        | dɑ̃.sɛ         | ply          | õ         | nə        | par.lɛ         | gɛ.rə]        |
| one                                            | not       | danced         | longer,      | one       | not       | spoke          | hardly,       |
| (we no longer danced, we hardly spoke,) |           |                |              |           |           |                |               |