

Solvejg's Song ['so:ʊl.vægz sɑŋ]

English translation by Arthur Westbrook of the original text by Henrik Ibsen (1828-1906)
Set by Edvard Grieg (1843-1907)

The winter may wane and the springtime go by,
[ðə 'wɪn.tə meɪ weɪn ænd ðə 'sprɪŋ.taɪm goʊ baɪ]

The summer too may vanish, the year may die;
But one day you'll return, that in truth I know,
And here I'll await you as I promised long ago.

May God guide your feet, if on earth still you rove.
His blessed peace be yours, if in realms above.
Faithfully I'll hide till again you draw near
